DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

The Declaration filed on January 4, 2005 under 37 CFR 1.131 is sufficient to overcome the Muftic reference.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The text of those sections of Title 35, U.S. Code not included in this action can be found in a prior Office action.

Claims 1-8, 18, 20-24, 26-29, 36-38, 42-53, 67-70, 70-79 and 83 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kanoh et al. in view of Muftic. Kanoh et al. show kiosks (3), which dispense CDs, see col. 1, lines 7-12, and receives the CDs back. The kiosks of Kanoh et al. are connected to a remote host computer 50; see col. 5, lines 33-40. Kanoh et al. include a reader 61 that reads bar codes on the CDs and indicates when a CD is erroneously returned; see col. 6, lines 13-16. Kanoh et al. maintain an inventory of the rented CDs and the location of the CDs in the kiosk; see col. 7, lines 35-64. Kanoh et al. disclose electronic transmission of charges to a credit card company, see col. 4, lines 28-31, 47-49, col. 9, lines 43-50 and col. 10, lines 5-12. However, Kanoh et al. do not disclose electronically transmitting a receipt to the user. On the other hand, Muftic discloses a system for secure electronic transactions including transmitting an electronic receipt of the transactions. Accordingly, it would have been obvious for one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide the device of Kanoh et al. with means to electronically transmit the receipt to the customer, as suggested by Muftic. The motivation of such a change would have allowed the customer a complete record of the transaction.

Claims 30-32, 71 and 72 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kanoh et al. in view of Muftic as applied to claim 2 above, and further in view of Brindze et al. Kanoh et al. as modified by Muftic disclose all the features of the claimed invention with the exception of concentric markings on the CDs. Brindze et al. show CDs with unique concentric markings to keep track of each CD. It would have been obvious for the skilled artisan in view of the showing and teaching of Brindze et al. to provide the CDs of Kanoh et al. with unique concentric markings to keep track of each CD in the kiosk.

Claims 9-12 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kanoh et al. in view of Muftic as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Reid et al. Kanoh et al., as modified by Muftic teach all the features of the claimed invention with the exception of a storage carousel for the CDs. Reid et al. is submitted to show a storage carousel 32 for holding the articles. Accordingly, it would have been obvious for one of ordinary skill to substitute the carousel of Reid et al. for the storage means of Kanoh et al. since the storage means are equivalent and either means would have worked equally well in the dispenser of Kanoh et al.

Claims 13, 54, 55, and 56 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kanoh et al. in view of Muftic as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Takahashi et al. Kanoh et al., as modified by Muftic teach all the features of the claimed invention with the exception of a device to polish the CDs. It would have been obvious for one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide a device for polishing the CDs in Kanoh et al., as suggested by Takahashi et al., since such a change would have removed scratches or stains from the CDs and provided a longer life to the CDs.

Claims 14 and 15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kanoh et al., in view of Muftic as applied to claim 2 above, and further in view of Takahashi et al. Kanoh et al., as modified by Muftic teach all the features of the claimed invention with the exception of a device to polish the CDs. It would have been obvious for one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to provide a device for polishing the CDs in Kanoh et al., as suggested by Takahashi et al., since such a change would have removed scratches or stains from the CDs and provided a longer life to the CDs.

Claims 25, 34, 35, 66, 75 and 76 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kanoh et al., in view of Muftic as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Dedrick. Kanoh et al., as modified by Muftic teach all the features of the claimed invention with the exception of sending advertisements according to a user profile. Dedrick discloses sending advertisements according to a user profile. It would have been obvious for the skilled artisan in view of the teachings of Dedrick to tailor the advertisement in Kanoh et al. according to user profiles in order to provide a better targeted advertisement.

Claims 33, 73 and 74 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kanoh et al., in view of Muftic as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of lida. Kanoh et al., as modified by Muftic teach all the features of the claimed invention with the exception of an optical writing system. lida discloses an optical writer 28 that writes data to the CDs. It would have been obvious for of ordinary skill in the art to provide the device of Kanoh et al. with an optical writer, as suggested by lida, in order to provide customized CDs to the customer.

Claims 39-41 and 80-82 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kanoh et al., in view of Muftic as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of lida. Kanoh et al., as modified by Muftic teach all the features of the claimed invention with the exception of a casing with an address and packaging for mailing. lida discloses a casing with an address and packaging for mailing the CDs in col. 15, lines 16-22. Accordingly, it would have been obvious for of ordinary skill in the art to provide the device of Kanoh et al. with a casing and means to address and mail the CDs, as suggested by lida, in order to provide a complete customer service to remote customers.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-15, 18-56 and 59-83 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 16, 17, 57 and 58 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Conclusion

This is a RCE of applicant's earlier Application No. 09/578,631. All claims are drawn to the same invention claimed in the earlier application and could have been finally rejected on the grounds and art of record in the next Office action if they had been entered in the earlier application. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL even though it is a first action in this case. See MPEP § 706.07(b). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

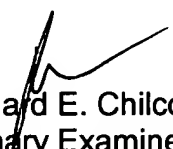

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no, however, event will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
